

GREATEST ENVELOPING MOVE IN ALL HISTORY

War Observers Say Teutons Endeavoring to Envelop Entire Russian Army About Polish Capital.

ITALIANS WINNING HARDEST BATTLE FOUGHT DURING WAR

Germanic Forces Still Gaining in East, But Russians Repel Attacks at Many Points—Frightful Carnage of Austrians in Gory Battle With Italians—Austrian Fleet Bombards Adriatic Ports—Forty German Boats Sunk in Black Sea.

By Associated Press.
London, July 27.—The magnitude of the German enveloping movement on the eastern front absorbs the attention of England. Reports show thirty thousand German cavalry to be within 80 miles of the railway connecting Petrograd and Warsaw, the main northward railway artery to the Russian capital, while the southern army is approaching the main artery to Odessa.

The Times declares human history can show no parallel to the tremendous extent of this enveloping movement. The Times believes the whole system of railway defenses, of which Warsaw is the center, is in danger, and that it is now apparent the Germans are planning to envelop the entire Russian army in this region.

London, July 27.—The battle between the Italians and Austrians along the line of the Isonzo river, is described in a Berlin dispatch as "the mightiest and most frightful of the world war."

The struggle has lasted a week, and it is said the artillery fire exceeded that of some of the Galician battles in intensity.

A Geneva dispatch says the Austrians are fighting with utter contempt of death, and the Italian artillery has mowed them down in masses.

Casualties on the Italian side have also been heavy, and an Italian general has been killed at the head of his men.

Operations are being directed from captive balloons, and aviators are seeking to destroy railways.

Rome, July 27.—Austrian cruisers and torpedo boat destroyers, at dawn today bombarded several points and villages on the railroad which runs along the shore of the Adriatic from Ancon to Pesaro. At the same time, two aviators dropped bombs on Pesaro. None of the attacks caused damage, nor injured anyone.

London, July 27.—The German advance on Warsaw continues today to be the most important development in the field of war. It is being conducted with energy and the Russian resistance has brought furious fighting along a wide front.

Latest reports indicate that the German movement is progressing. The Russians admit the Germans are attacking the advance defenses of Nova Georgievsk, 15 miles northwest of Warsaw but at the same time, cite a number of instances in which the Germans have been either repulsed or unsuccessful in their attacks.

This is notable at Pultusk, 30 miles north of the capital of Russian-Poland. At Ivangorod also, 55 miles southeast of Warsaw, attacks by German troops have been successfully repulsed.

The battle is still raging with terrific fury on almost the whole front between the Vepz and the Bug rivers. Furthermore, Petrograd announces the destruction in the Black sea of 40 sailing vessels, laden with coal for Germany.

BAYONNE STRIKE ENDS

New York, July 27.—About 1,500 men, who had been on strike for several days, returned to work today in the oil plants in Bayonne, N. J. The sheriff declared the strike was broken, and that by tomorrow other strikers would be back at work, several hundred guards at the plants removed, and an increase in pay granted the employees by the end of the week.

9 VESSELS ARE SUNK

By Associated Press.
London, July 27.—Apparently determined to demoralize the British fish supply as much as possible, two German submarines have appeared suddenly among the fishing fleet off the north coast of Scotland, and by shell fire sunk nine trawlers.

Reports were also received today that German submarines had sunk a Norwegian vessel and a Danish steamer. The captain of the Norwegian ship reported seeing three boats which had been set on fire by German submarines. No lives were reported lost in any case.

MORE FOOD FOR STARVING

Columbus, July 27.—Another carload of food was dispatched to Corn- ing by the adjutant general's department today, to be used in feeding starving coal miners in that district.

BRITISH ARE LOSING 13,000 EVERY WEEK

By Associated Press.
London, July 27.—Premier Asquith announced that the total casualties of the British army and navy have reached 330,995, in killed, wounded and missing. Of these 9,106 were in the navy, the others in the army.

On April 11, it was stated in parliament the total losses were 139,317. If these figures were correct, in the last 19 weeks the losses have averaged 13,000 a week.

SIR EDWARD GRAY.
Who Today Requested Secretary Lansing to Hold up Great Britain's Note, Stating New Note Will Supplant One Just Received—A Most Extraordinary Request.

NEW NOTE TO CHANGE ONE JUST RECEIVED

Extraordinary Action of England in Asking That Last Note Be Withheld From Publication Forecasts Radical Changes, Probably Due to the Tone of America's Note to Germany—New Note Now Being Prepared.

By Associated Press.
Washington, July 27.—Sir Edward Gray cabled Secretary Lansing today that the British government has in preparation another note to the United States on the orders in council, and asked that the note delivered yesterday be withheld from publication, pending receipt of the new communication.

Therefore, yesterday's note will not be published tomorrow morning, as had been planned. Secretary Lansing said the message from London stated the new note would be here in another week.

In official quarters the development was regarded as highly significant. The belief revealed that the last American note to Germany, with reference to the freedom of the seas, may have influenced Great Britain to place herself on record as willing to take under consideration any new suggestions by the United States to the belligerents.

Sir Edward Gray's request that the note received yesterday be withheld, was taken to mean, at all events, that a new situation had arisen, or that some new proposals were about to be made by Great Britain to alleviate the affect of the order in council.

FRENCH LOSE SUBMARINE

Berlin, July 27.—A French submarine was destroyed by a German submarine on July 26, in the narrows of the Dardanelles, according to a dispatch from Constantinople. Thirty-one members of the French submarine's crew were captured.

PROBERS TRYING TO PLACE BLAME

Indications in Eastland Tragedy Point to Overcrowding of the "Crank of the Lakes" Under Consent of Federal Inspectors—827 Bodies Recovered and 393 Still Missing—Vessel Had 2700 Persons Aboard—Eight Probes Are Launched—State and Federal Investigators Clash.

Chicago, July 27.—The State's Attorney said today that probably 2,700 persons were on the Eastland when she turned over. There were 2,550 tickets in round numbers collected, he declared, and children under five were not counted; and those between five and twelve went two on a ticket.

The bodies rescued show that many children of this age went on the boat, he said. The ship had a crew of 70 and an orchestra of at least half a dozen, according to the attorney.

At noon the official list of dead and missing was: Identified dead, 822; unidentified dead, 5; missing, (Western Electric Company list), 393; total, 1,220. Several persons listed as dead or missing proved to be alive today.

Scores of funerals passed through the west side suburb today, and many will be held tomorrow, which has been named "Black Wednesday."

Taking of testimony at the coroner's inquest began today. The first person to testify was a passenger who was saved. He declared eight or ten minutes elapsed between the time the boat first started to list badly and when she finally overturned. There would have been time for warning, he asserted, but none was given.

Chicago, July 27.—With the arrival here today of Secretary of Commerce Redfield, steps were taken to determine what form the federal investigation into the cause of the capsizing of the steamship Eastland, at her dock Saturday, shall take.

Secretary Redfield, following President Wilson's request for a thorough investigation, is prepared to go into the case independently of the federal inspection service, but will not announce his conclusions until he has had time to make a personal examination of conditions.

With the entry of the cabinet member into the case, no less than eight separate investigations are in progress, or contemplated, with the situation complicated by clash between State's Attorney Hoynes and federal authorities, over the possession of evidence gathered by the Chicago police, and which the latter, on demand, turned over to the government agents for presentation to the federal grand jury.

The county grand jury started its hearing at the criminal court building and the coroner's jury began the taking of testimony at the county building.

United States District Attorney Clyne began the calling of witnesses for the federal grand jury. A com-

DUNLAP STILL LACKS VOTE

Columbus, July 27.—Rennick W. Dunlap, of Kingston, needed only one more vote within the board, to be elected secretary of the new board of agriculture, at its second meeting today, it was said. The position carries a salary of $4,000 a year.

Doubt was expressed by members, whether a secretary would be elected for several months. In that case, John Begg, president of the board, would continue to act as secretary.

Governor Willis still declined to indicate his choice for secretary, members who conferred with him today declared.

19 MINERS ENTOMBED

Christopher, Ill., July 27.—Nine- teen miners were trapped in one of the entrances of Modewell mine No. 1 here today, by an explosion of gas. Six miners, badly burned, made their way to safety.

The accident occurred four hundred feet below the surface. Five hundred men are employed in the mine, but they use several entrances and only a few were at the entrance near which the explosion occurred.

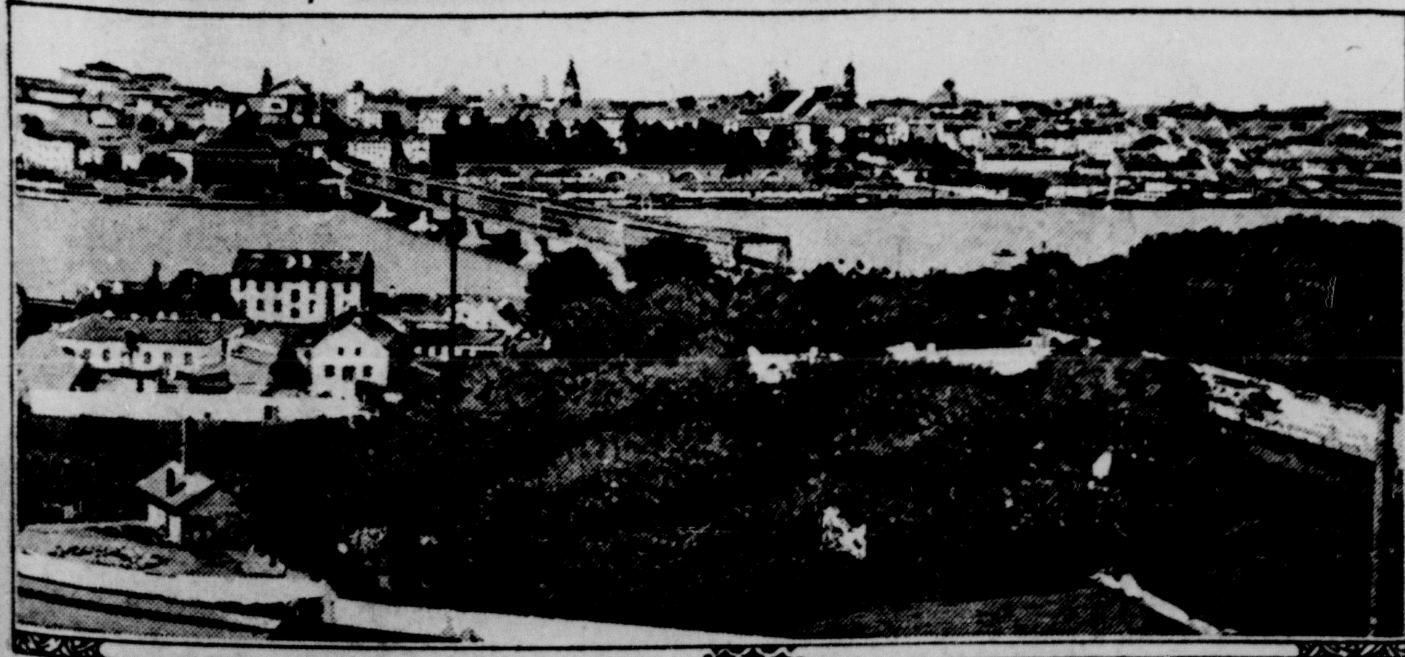

Eight men were killed and fifteen badly burned in the explosion. Three men are missing. All others escaped.

BIG SCARE ON STEAMER

Vevay, Ind., July 27.—Three hundred excursionists on the steamer Homer Smith were badly frightened when the packet City of Louisville collided with the Homer Smith in the Ohio river near here today.

The coolness of the excursion boat's crew prevented a panic. Four women fainted. The steamers were only slightly damaged.

contains an interesting and complimentary article concerning Mr. William Worthington, of this city, prominent in local Y. M. C. A. affairs. The article is given plenty of prominent space and is accompanied by a photograph of Mr. Worthington.

"The president of the Fayette County Bank believes that the world is in need of a much larger number of young men who can make the sociation worker previously, he greatly hesitated to accept the urgent invitation which other leading business men of his home city pressed upon him a year ago, to take the chairmanship of a campaign to raise $25,000, with which to pay all outstanding obligations of their new $50,000 Association equipment. After careful consideration, the responsibility was accepted. The full amount of pledges was secured under his leadership and the friends all believed the campaign was a splendid success.

"Mr. Worthington, as an experienced banker and very successful business man, knew very well, that pledges were good, but actual cash was needed in order to pay indebtedness. He, therefore, considered his work only begun when the full amount—$25,000—was pledged. Many other chairmen have quit at that point, thinking the work was practically completed.

"Mr. Worthington voluntarily shouldered the future responsibility of making all collections and paying all obligations which his fund was to meet. He has worked away, faithfully, earnestly and tirelessly and is thereby completely finishing what he has begun; is strengthening the good name and business standing of the local Association and is also setting an excellent example for many other Ohio business men.

"So many men quit work before the necessary results are secured. By his untiring and persistent effort, "Billy" Worthington is setting an example as a volunteer worker, that has far larger value to the men of Washington C. H. and to many of our other Ohio Association workers than would have been possible if he had either paid off all the Association's obligations himself, or had considered the work finished at the close of the campaign."

This splendid tribute comes from the pen of State Secretary A. H. Lichty himself.

SINKING OF LEELANAW NOT "UNFRIENDLY" ACT

Washington, July 27.—Indications are that the torpedoing of the American steamer Leelanaw by a German submarine off the coast of Scotland will constitute a case very similar to that of the Frye, now a subject of controversy with Germany, and that the act will not be regarded as "deliberately unfriendly," of which President Wilson gave warning in his last note.

NEED OF CASH IS IMPERATIVE

Columbus, July 27.—Governor Willis and the adjutant general's department have redoubled their efforts to collect food supplies for starving miners in the Ohio coal fields. Reports to Colonel E. S. Bryant from the captains who accompanied the first shipment into the coal fields were that the food quickly ran short and that only about half the families who are in dire need were supplied. "Cash is the imperative need now," said Colonel Bryant. "Our department is able to buy food in large quantities at the lowest possible prices and buy it near the coal fields, so quick distribution may be had. Cash subscriptions should be sent either to Governor Willis personally or to the adjutant general's department."

MR. WILSON DEMANDS THE TRUTH

President Wilson Demands Facts in Eastland Case.

SOLICITOR THURMAN ENGAGED

National Capital for Chicago, Where He Will Assist in the Taking of Testimony—Effort to Shift Responsibility for the Chicago River Horror—Latest Estimate of the Dead.

Chicago, July 27.—Chicago is burying its dead while divers continue to bring lifeless forms to the surface from the excursion ship Eastland, and investigations to fix responsibility are under way.

Coroner Hoffman and other officials, after a careful examination of the list of the dead identified, unidentified and known missing, puts the total loss of life in the disaster at 1,500. Firemen and the divers who have explored the lower sections of the great steel tomb insist there are still 500 bodies locked within the hull.

Steps were taken towards punishing those responsible for the appalling loss of life by the federal, state and municipal authorities, and indications point that the inquiries will be the most sweeping of the kind ever held. The machinery of the federal government was set in motion by President Wilson when, at his summer home in Cornish, N. H., he communicated with Secretary Redfield of the department of commerce and labor to take a hand in the investigation and ascertain if there were any violations of the criminal law.

Shifting Responsibility.
Reports also came from Washington that there was a "manifest shifting of responsibility in department circles for the Great Lakes inspection service." So great was the storm of criticism in the national capital that a congressional investigation was talked of. Serious charges which, if substantiated, warrant criminal prosecution even if no loss of life were involved, have been made against the service.

Bert L. Thurman, solicitor general of the department, left Washington for Chicago to assist in the taking of testimony. Eugene T. Chamberlain, commissioner of navigation of the commerce department, may also come to Chicago.

"There will be no whitewashing in this inquiry," said a federal official. "President Wilson is at the helm in a personal and particular way. The president has demanded facts, and he is getting them."

Solicitor Thurman is bringing with him to Chicago the only protest ever filed with the department against the steamer Eastland. It was made in 1906 by George J. Schmitt, when the Eastland was running between Chicago and South Haven.

The grand jury, under Foreman George A. Hughes, visited the wreck of the Eastland and made a thorough inspection of the hull. The jury was particularly impressed with the fact that bow and stern lines which had moored the craft to its wharf were still attached.

Cause of the Disaster.
Empty ballast tanks below and overcrowded decks above was the terse summary made to explain the Eastland catastrophe. Others familiar with the operation and construction of the boat declared she previously had carried more passengers than were aboard Saturday and that lack of ballast in the water tanks, it is believed, was the real cause of the capsizing.

"We are going into the question of overcrowding and the lack of ballast," said State's Attorney Horne. "Criminal responsibility can be placed on somebody."

Out on the far West Side the pall of mourning that shrouds Chicago deepens to its darkest over the community about Cicero. Here, in the territory which surrounds the plant of the Western Electric company, fell the heaviest blow when the crowded Eastland toppled over. The territory includes Hawthorne, where the toll was highest; Morton Park, Warren Park, Grant works and Clyde. And in every block in each of these suburbs the shaft of sorrow was struck home.

Eight more members of the crew of the Eastland were taken into custody, making fifty-two of the seventy officers and men now under arrest. They were taken to the states attorney's office and caused to make statements concerning the wreck and then locked up.

BECKER IS GRANTED A RESPITE

Court Reserves Decision on Appeal For New Trial.

New York, July 27.—Charles Becker's last plea for a reversal of the verdict of the jury which found him guilty of murder has been made but not decided, and the legal points involved are so intricate that Justice Ford has granted Becker a two-day respite.

After W. Bourke Cockran, chief of Becker's counsel, had urged upon Supreme Court Justice Ford for four hours that new evidence of sufficient weight had been uncovered to merit a new trial for the condemned man, Assistant District Attorney Robert C. Taylor argued that the new evidence, even if true, could not under the law command a new trial.

Justice Ford reserved decision and counsel for both sides will submit briefs on the legal points this afternoon. Then Justice Ford called up Thomas Mott Osborne, warden of Sing Sing, on the telephone, explained the situation to him and said it would be advisable to postpone Becker's execution until late so that he will not have to hurry with his decision.

Wednesday morning at 5:45 had been fixed as the time, and the invitations had been sent out, but Warden Osborne readily agreed to postpone Becker's death until Friday morning, at the same time. The law has decreed that Becker is to die this week, but it is within the warden's powers to decide at what time during the week.

Summer Travel Depleted

Whether or not Americans are spending the money usually spent in Europe in their own country this summer, and there is little to indicate that they are, it is an absolute certainty that Europe is not receiving much of it.

There has been considerable discussion as to the average amount of money spent by American tourists each year on the continent, and estimates range from the very conservative one of $220,000,000 to the great sum of $500,000,000.

These figures are computed upon the amount spent in transportation, hotel bills and incidentals of traveling and do not take into consideration the large sums spent for jewels, clothing, art treasures and souvenirs of all kinds, purchased to greater or less extent by almost all tourists.

There have been years when importations of art objects alone have gone as high as $50,000,000.

This year it is claimed by steamship authorities that not twenty-five per cent of normal are crossing the ocean and those who are taking the risks of the voyage are largely doing so for business reasons, with no intencion of the tourists' extravagance.

The lack of the enormous sums formerly pouring freely into the banks of the continent from this country still further depletes the decreasing revenues of Europe and statistics also show a big falling off in the personal remittances which in normal years sometimes reaches $200,000,000.

If Americans spend but a part of these great sums which have been stimulating Europe's financial credit, in their own country, it will be beneficial in the United States.

However, it is probable that the business conditions in this country, so largely changed by the foreign war, will not permit the extravagant outlay heretofore practiced, without curtailing, by wealthy tourists and pleasure seekers.

The well known business depression resulting from the war affects the millionaire class far beyond the ordinary business fluctuation, and there are many people of the so called extremely rich, as well as those of ordinary means, who are indulging in far less than their usual expenditure for summer travel this year.

Strange as it seems, in the land of the United States' well known patriotism, there is also a large class of people, especially in the east, to whom nothing appeals like the trip abroad and who have little real interest in the wonders of our great west, in the "Alps of America," in the scenic grandure of the Grand Canyon, the Yellow Stone National Park, the Yosemite Valley, the magnificence of Alaska and the panoramas of beauty as they are unfolded in different types of nature's painting, throughout the entire United States.

It may be the fact that the uncertainty of business conditions leads to money retrenchment, but it must be admitted that the millions spent in European travel each summer are not being poured to any such extent into similar channels at home.

Devastated Nations Will Turn to America For Aid In Rehabilitation
Do ALEXANDER J. HEMPHILL, Chairman Guaranty Trust Company, New York

THE destruction and wastage of capital occasioned by the war has been estimated on the basis of a year's duration at forty billion dollars, AND, WHILE IT MAY NOT BE NECESSARY TO RESTORE ALL OF THIS AT ONCE, FROM PRESENT INDICATIONS THE DEMAND ON US WILL BE ENORMOUS.

First, there will be the call on our merchants to furnish materials in connection with the rehabilitation or rebuilding of the devastated country, and, second, we will have to give credit either through making direct loans or through the repurchase of American securities held abroad.

From present indications the foreign investors will part from our securities slowly and will be tempted to liquidate only at high prices.

It is more than probable that several of the foreign countries will ask us for some of our gold in order that they may restore or build up their gold reserves. These demands upon our financial resources seem to presage more than an active and firm money market.

Poetry For Today

THE BRAVE AT HOME.

The maid who binds her warrior's sash
With smile that well her pain dissembles,
The while beneath her drooping lash
One starry teardrop hangs and trembles.
Through Heaven alone records her tear,
And Fame shall never know her story,
Her heart has shed a drop as dear
As e'er bedewed the field of glory.

The wife who girds her husband's sword,
Mid little ones who weep or wonder,
And bravely speaks the cheering word,
What though her heart be rent asunder,
Doomed nightly in her dreams to hear
The bolts of death around him rattle,
Hath shed as sacred blood as e'er
Was poured upon the field of battle!

The mother who conceals her grief
While to her breast her son she presses,
Then breathes a few brave words and brief,
Kissing the patriot brow she blesses.
With no one but her secret God
To know the pain that weighs upon her
Sheds holy blood as e'er the sod
Received on Freedom's field of honor.

McCreary county has a sheriff. There is nothing unusual about a county having a sheriff, but the sheriff of whom McCreary county boasts is also a sexton.
To have a sheriff and sexton in one and the same person is a convenience that can be appreciated by those who are familiar with the pastime of shuffling in the mountainous counties of Kentucky. It's mighty "handy like."—Prairie County (Ky.) Advocate.

Luke McLuke Says

Fate always hands a meek man a bossy wife, because one rabbit in a family is enough.

When she is seventeen she believes in long engagements and thinks it very poor taste for a girl to marry on short notice. But when she is twenty-seven she will marry a man on a one hour notice because she realizes that she is getting older every minute.

The man who has a small salary and a big family has as much trouble making both ends meet as a puppy does when he is chasing his own tail.

Even a doctor who needs the money will admit that the best prescription he can write is, "Take less medicine and more exercise."

Husbands will never admit it. But the reason why a woman has to have a fresh box of talcum powder every now and then is because their hubbies use up half of it shaving.

We all know that the sign, "This means you," always means the other fellow.

When a kid discovers that he can get nickels out of his bank by using a table knife he regards Columbus as a piker.

The biggest diamond in the world is always the one a princess has in her engagement ring.

A man often gets the worst of it when he takes a better half.

What has become of the old fashioned woman who used to say that fingers were made before forks and who said that any man who soiled two knives when he was eating a meal was a dude?

You never see a crowd of men following a plain duty or a plain girl.

WILSON TO ACT IN THE MEX. FUSS

Definite Step to Be Taken In the Near Future.

WOULD SETTLE THE PROBLEM

One Plan Contemplates Efforts to Assemble Mexican Leaders Who Would Arrange For a Constitutional Convention—Changes in the Military Situation in the Vicinity of Mexico City—Villa Reported in Flight.

Washington, July 27.—Authoritative announcement comes from the state department that a definite step toward settling the Mexican problem will be taken by the United States government in the near future.

President Wilson is understood to be revolving several suggested courses in his mind. His decision probably will not become known before his return to Washington from Cornish, N. H. Mr. Wilson is known to have been reviewing the situation for some time, the warring Mexican factions having failed to heed his suggestion of two months ago that they accommodate their differences and restore peace in the distressed country. Apparently he has determined that the other measures which the Washington government announced it must take if the battle of the factions continued, must now be resorted to.

Officials in close touch with the president think he has not finally determined what is to be done. His most probable course, it was reported, would be to urge General Carranza for the last time to confer with other faction leaders in an effort to bring about peace. Should Carranza again refuse, this plan, it is said, contemplates efforts to assemble other Mexican leaders, who will represent a majority of the Mexican people.

Such a conference, it has been suggested, might be held in northern Mexico, if it is possible to free it from military interference. If not, it might be held across the border in the United States.

May Issue Address.

The conferences would arrange for a constitutional convention which would plan for an election and the establishment of a government which the United States would recognize and help to maintain.

If such a step is undertaken by the United States, it is not known whether President Wilson will issue another address to the Mexican people and leaders or whether the second suggestion for a conference would be presented to the various chiefs through official representatives in Mexico of this government.

Changes in the military situation in the vicinity of Mexico City were reported from several sources. The Carranza agency here was advised from Vera Cruz that General Gonzales was returning to Mexico City, the Villa flying column under General Fierro having fled northward from Pachuca without a battle.

A state department report from Mexico City dated July 20 said the capital was quiet and that water and light service had been restored, but that the food situation was causing great concern. The Zapata forces were reported at that time 200 miles from the city, under command of General Castillo.

What Constitutes Wealth

A Persian Philosopher — who albeit a Philosopher was very wise in the things of this world—when asked as to what constituted wealth replied: "To constitute wealth there must be three gifts. No. 1, Money. No. 2, More Money. No. 3, Still More Money." There is more in this than appears to the casual eye. First, let us say, open a Bank Account at the Fayette County Bank with a little Money. Add to it and you will have More Money. Continue adding to it and you will have Still More Money —and before you know it, you have WEALTH.

What Did She Mean?

The two young ladies had gushed and "dearied" each other until the other passengers in the tram were heartily sick of it, especially as they never lost a chance of getting in a nasty cut at each other.

Just before they parted Angeline obliged Emmeline with a stamp for a letter.

"Oh, I must give you a penny for this!" exclaimed Emmie, as she prepared to leave the car.

"Don't bother, dear," cooed Angie. "Give it to me next time I see you."

"But you mayn't see me for a long time," protested Emmie.

"Oh, well, the loss wouldn't be great!" cooed Angie, more sweetly than ever.—London Answers.

LOCAL PEOPLE IMploRED TO HELP STARVING MINERS

Mayor Coffey Receives Telegram From Governor Willis.

Mayor Coffey Tuesday morning received from Governor Willis a telegram, calling upon the people of this community to join in the statewide movement for the relief of the starving families of southern Ohio miners, whose destitution is a result of the recent coal strikes.

The mayor adds his voice to that of the governor, whose message, a duplicate of which has been sent to every city of importance in the state, is as follows:

"I appeal to you most earnestly to lend every possible assistance in alleviating dire distress among miners and their families in southern Ohio.

"Please use your influence with your business men, associations, churches and civic bodies to rush supplies to the adjutant general's department. State officials will see to the proper distribution. The situation demands immediate relief.

"FRANK B. WILLIS."

The condition of hundreds of families in lower Ohio is more serious than most persons realize. Starvation in these localities is not only threatening but has entered the first stages of reality.

Local people wishing to aid in the work of relief should get in touch with Mayor Coffey.

COL. MILLIKAN HAD EASTLAND TURNED ABOUT

That the action of the late Col. B. H. Millikan in 1913 probably saved a tragedy on Lake Erie is indicated in a story related by Mr. Harry Gunning, traveling salesman of the Dahl-Millikan Company. Col. Millikan, according to Mr. Gunning, ordered the Eastland back to the wharf because she appeared unsafe, and part of the wharf was torn away in attempting a landing.

Mr. Gunning is quoted by the Chillicothe Gazette as follows:

"In the year 1913, when the Dahl-Millikan people were having their excursion, and they had their headquarters at Cedar Point, Ohio, the Eastland steamer was there for the purpose of carrying the excursionists to Put-in-Bay. At that time Colonel Millikan was in charge of the party, and it was on this trip that something unusual was noticed. As it happened, the ship had just started for Put-in-Bay and had gone only a short distance, when it turned and sought the wharf again. In landing much trouble was experienced. Nearly the whole of the wharf was torn down by the unruly Eastland. Later it was learned that Colonel Millikan had found that the steamer was not considered altogether safe, and for that reason he had the steamer returned to the dock. Not long after that, on the same excursion, the steamer ran aground and a tug worked for three hours trying to get her off the shoal.

"In talking with one of the extra officers, later, he told me and another salesman with me, that he had been sent to do duty on this boat, but that he did not fancy it. For, to his knowledge, he stated that he had heard that the ship had been built for an ocean vessel, but that it did not give satisfaction according to its construction, and that it was altered for the lake service."

WILL OPEN PART OF STREET NEXT WEEK

The work of grouting the newly paved Washington avenue, from Ely street to Elm street is now under way, and sometime next week that portion of the avenue will be thrown open to traffic and it will be possible for vehicles to come into or leave the city by way of Washington avenue and over Elm street, so that a long detour will no longer be necessary after the avenue is once opened into Elm street.

The street has been paved to a point more than 100 yards west of the Elm street intersection, and by the end of this week the entire concrete base will be laid on the street and most of the brick placed in position, so that by the first of week after next the entire street may once more be thrown open to traffic, or at least as far as the intersection of East and Ogle streets.

The work of opening East Court street will be under way within a few days if present plans are carried out. Court street from North to the intersection of Columbus and Washington avenues will be paved with asphalt, thus eliminating much of the noise which usually comes with paved streets.

BURNING OF DEBRIS INSIDE CITY MUST BE DISCONTINUED

Since the tornado, Health Officer John Byron finds himself confronted with a new difficulty. This difficulty grows out of the disposal some persons are making of the debris created by the storm.

In all sections of the city many branches and twigs and leaves were stripped from trees by the storm. Many people did not immediately dispose of these, and recently have been having big bonfires, in which all sorts of refuse has been mixed with the brush.

These fires have been going in all parts of the city, and especially in Millwood, it is said. In some of the outskirt quarters of the city they are allowed to burn in the streets. The smoke from these fires has been not only annoying but unhealthy.

Realizing the extent of the difficulty Officer Byron feels compelled to resort to quick and effective measures, and Monday issued the following statement:

"I wish to call the attention of the public to an ordinance regulating the disposal of brush, garbage and refuse of all kinds. No person is permitted to dump garbage, brush or refuse of any kind inside the city limits.

"The burning of brush or refuse is positively prohibited, day or night. Since the recent storm the burning of brush has been going on in some parts of the city. These fires smolder for days, throw out obnoxious odors, are unhealthful and must be discontinued.

"The health laws cover these violations. If necessary the law will be used to get results.

"JOHN BYRON,
"Health Officer."

WILL PROTEST AGAINST DIRT

North street citizens, along the section recently paved, are beginning to think seriously of making written protest in an effort to obtain proper cleaning of the street.

When the contractor opened the street he left a liberal sprinkling of sand which since has become thoroughly mixed with dirt and other refuse so that every passing vehicle leaves a cloud of unwholesome dust behind, and the filth settles over everything along the street, making life unpleasant not only to residents of the street, but to pedestrians and all travelers over the street.

It is expected that a petition will be directed to council asking that the city furnish a flusher or other means of cleaning the newly paved thoroughfares.

The "buds" again enjoyed a social affair Tuesday morning with Miss Eleanor McClain and Miss Nelle Cissna winsome young hostesses at the McClain home.

It was an extremely pretty party with a yellow and white color scheme artistically employed in elaborate decorations. Inside nasturtiums and radioli filled vases and bowls and adorning the large verandah was a profusion of golden glow and cosmos.

Sixty young girls brought their busy work and found the cool shade of the verandah and grounds, with the delightful hospitalities extended, most attractive.

Creating diversion was an "animal moulding" contest, in which Miss Jessie Snikle won the favor, a dainty corsage bouquet of sweet peas.

A delicious collation was served, with the yellow and white colors introduced in the menu and the favors yellow and white crocheted baskets of confections.

RUSSIANS HOLDING MACKENSEN

Latter's Attempt to Seize the Lublin-Chelm Railway Meets With No Success—Von Buelow Continues Drive South From Courland—Italians Report Progress Against the Austrians. Aeroplane Attack Submarine.

London, July 27.—Dispatches from the eastern front state that Field Marshal Von Mackensen's sustained effort to throw any considerable body of Austro-German troops astride the Lublin-Chelm railway having met with no success, the Germans are now centering their main offensive north of the Warsaw salient and, having crossed the Narew river along a forty mile front, are driving the Russians toward the Bug where it joins with the Narew north of the Polish capital. Warsaw still holds out, but the general belief is held here that its loss by the Russians is only a matter of time.

Dispatches reaching London from Petrograd predict that the much discussed climax to the great struggle in Poland will come within a fortnight, with simultaneous attacks upon the city from the north and south.

In the meantime General Von Buelow's troops, driving south from Courland, are thirty-five miles southeast of Shavli, having reached the Poniewiez railway line, which the German cavalry is attempting to seize, preparatory to cutting the more important Kovno-Vina line.

A Rome dispatch says that it is semi-officially announced that since the war began Italy has taken approximately 20,000 Austrian prisoners, including fifty officers. More than 300 officers have been captured since July 18 in the battle of the Isonzo. Operations on the Carso plateau are said to be progressing favorably to the Italians. In Carnia and in the Monte Nero region the Austrians made desperate counter attacks, which were easily repulsed.

GOV'T FIRM ON COTTON MATTER

London, July 27.—Despite the recent agitation by certain sections of the British press that cotton be declared contraband, the government has not changed its decision on this point. This is indicated by a statement made in the house of commons by Lord Robert Cecil, parliamentary undersecretary for foreign affairs, who said that Great Britain did not want to deal unfairly with neutrals.

BRYAN SPEAKS OF SITUATION

San Francisco, July 27.—William J. Bryan is of the opinion that those who are looking for "the big stick in the Scriptures would think the writers of holy writ were mollycoddlers." Bryan thus expressed himself in an address at the First Congregational church. The keynote of Mr. Bryan's address was that the United States has no warrant to conceive war against Germany or any other European power. "To go to war with Germany now," he said, "would be like challenging an insane asylum."

MR. SHANKLIN COMING HOME

Havana, July 27.—Former American Consul General at Mexico City, Shanklin arrived here on his way to Washington and declined to say anything regarding affairs in Mexico or the recent attack made against him by the Brazilian minister to Mexico, Oliveira, who is administering the affairs of the United States in Mexico. Other arrivals, however, said that the Brazilian minister was wrong in his complaint of Mr. Shanklin's actions. They say that he asked Mr. Shanklin to ascertain the number of Americans in Mexico City, and that in accordance with this request Mr. Shanklin advertised, asking Americans to register with "Consul General Shanklin." The Brazilian minister thereupon asserted with anger that Mr. Shanklin had no right to call himself the consul general, according to the arrivals from Mexico City.

LIFE AND LONGEVITY.

Simply Prolonging One's Days on Earth Is Not Real Living.

What really constitutes life? Is it action, or is it merely existence? Who is the more useful, the man who gives his all in energy to service or he who conserves his forces and thereby prolongs his days? He lives most who accomplishes most. Activity in useful, productive or constructive effort is the real test of life. Length of years may content some, but restless, energetic souls will press forward, regardless of time, striving for a goal they may never attain, but always striving, and these only really live.

Life insurance presidents, being interested in the prolongation of existence of risks, bend their efforts to the teaching of elements of living, the avoidance of excesses, exposures or unnecessary risks of any kind and in this way really serve the world because they increase the productive years of man.

As a result of modern methods man really lives longer and better, but this is not the all in all of life. To live is to be active, to have a part in the creative effort of mankind, regardless of whether the span be long or short, so long as it is busy, for "an end is an end, whether it cometh on the winged heels of a week or the dull stretch of a century."—Omaha Bee.

at Barbizon and "try to do something really good."

It was then that he began to paint that most beautiful poem of poverty, "The Angelus," which is today one of the most valuable pictures in the world. Again and again he threw aside the picture in despair of ever finishing it to his satisfaction, and as often his wife replaced it on the easel and induced him to continue.

On one occasion he was so incensed at not being able to produce a certain effect that he seized a knife and would have destroyed the canvas and ended the matter once for all had not his wife fortunately seized his hand and induced him to give the picture another trial.

Thus it was that at last "The Angelus" found a place on the walls of the Louvre. The success it won encouraged Millet to paint many more pictures and thus place himself among the immortals in art.

The lone tally, which undid the results of fine box work by Adams, came on a fluke single by Moran, Evers' sacrifice and Magee's hit. DO YOUR VERY BEST.
Be Earnest and Thorough and You Are Bound to Succeed.

There is a feature of Dickens' character which cannot be too often or too seriously insisted upon, and that is his intense earnestness and thoroughness in everything he did. He said to me more than once:

"My dear boy, do everything at your best. If you do that neither I nor any one else can find fault with you, even if you fail. For myself, I can honestly say that I have taken as great pains with the smallest thing I ever did as with the biggest."

In giving advice to a young author he said on one occasion:

"If you want your public to believe in what you write you must believe in it yourself. When I am describing a scene I can as distinctly see what I am describing as I can see you now. So real are my characters to me that on one occasion I had fixed upon the course which one of them was to pursue. The character, however, got hold of me and made me do exactly the opposite to what I had intended, but I was so sure that he was right and I was wrong that I let him have his own way."

Whatever he did either in work or play he always gave of his very best. He hated slackness or half heartedness in any shape or form.—Harper's Weekly.

Futility of Argument.
Plato defined man as "a two legged animal without feathers." Diogenes, who heard this, plucked a cock. "This is Plato's man," said he. But never you think the old timer lacked a "come-back." He added to his original definition the words, "With broad flat nails." Such is the futility of argument.—Springfield Republican.

Passionate people always deny their anger, and cowards often boast their ignorance of fear.

Bowser Goes Fishing
But He Does Not Catch Even a Whale
By M. QUAD.
Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Bowser had been at the office about five minutes the other morning when his friend, Mr. Skill, came in. After talking a few minutes about the sudden rise in the price of prunes Mr. Skill said:

"Bowser, I am all in."

"So'm I," was the reply.

"I should judge from the looks of you that you are. We have both worked hard during a long, hot spell."

"We have that."

"Unless we take a day off we are on the way to the graveyard. Let's have one day off tomorrow."

"And go into the country?" queried Mr. Bowser.

"Country? Not much. We will go down the bay fishing, and breathe in some of that ozone which blows in from mid-Atlantic, and we will both come back as fit as fiddies."

"That's it—that's it, hooray! Have you got a boat?"

"A friend of mine will lend me his motorboat, but the trouble is to find some one to run it. I never tried one."

"But I have," replied Bowser. "I can run a motor boat from here to Texas and back as slick as grease."

"Then that settles it, old man. Our party will be composed of us two, my wife, your wife and two jolly good fellows. We will start early, take a big lunch and be gone all day."

"Bully for us!" exclaimed Mr. Bowser. "We will fish and fish and fish. We will catch bass and pike and pickerel and dolphins and sharks and whales and anything else that comes around. By George, I am glad that you suggested it! What time do you want to start?"

"We ought to get away by 7 o'clock in the morning, and Morton's wharf will be a handy place for all of us to meet for the start."

Mr. Bowser had hardly entered his house that evening when Mrs. Bowser knew that something was up. She did not ask what it was, however, nor did he volunteer any information. He was somewhat abstracted during the meal, but when they had reached the sitting room and he had got his cigar alight said was walking to and fro she said:

"I hope you are not thinking of starting out for the north pole?"

"Mrs. Bowser," he replied, "your sour face shows that you are bilious. The dark circles under your eyes show that you are not well. Your dragging step shows weariness. I am not going to suggest a tonic, however."

"It would do no good if you did," she answered. "I was looking in the glass ten minutes before you came, and I have neither a pallid complexion nor have I dark circles. Nobody else seems to have noticed that I drag my feet. Perhaps they have increased in size and weight during the last two or three days."

"If you are feeling well I am sure I am not," said Mr. Bowser in solemn tones. "The fact is I am all run down, and I have neither strength nor ambition to continue my work without at least a brief play spell."

"Well, why don't you take one?"

"That's what I'm going to do, and tomorrow is the day."

And he told her about Mr. and Mrs. Skill, the motorboat, the jolly good fellows, the ozone and the fish and wound up with adding:

"It will be like beginning a new life."

"Who is going to run the motorboat?" cautiously asked Mrs. Bowser.

"Why, I am, to be sure!"

"Then that settles it; I don't go."

"But why, woman—why?"

"Because you know nothing whatever about running a boat of any sort, and I don't want to be drowned."

"I can run a motorboat as easily and safely as you can run a broom across the floor!" shouted Mr. Bowser as his face grew very red.

"But I don't go," persisted Mrs. Bowser.

She was right. Mr. Bowser had never even rowed a skiff about on rock bottom. As a motorboat exhibition he had stood within five inches and a half of a fine looking motorboat and had been told that the price was $450, but that was the limit of his experience. After chewing the rag for three or four minutes he growled:

"You can stay home if you like, but I am going. You would probably spoil our day for us if you went along. Tell the cook to have me a bit of breakfast ready soon after 6 o'clock."

At 7 o'clock next morning Mr. Bowser was at Morton's wharf and found the rest of the party already there. During the night he had dreamed of being drowned in each of the seven seas, but this fact had not lessened his assurance that he could run a motorboat. The owner of the boat may have had his doubts on that point, for he asked of him:

"Have you had much experience?"

"Only about fifteen years," was the reply.

"That ought to be plenty. You see you manage the engine from the wheel."

"Sure I see. Don't waste any breath on me."

All got into the boat, Mr. Bowser took the wheel, and the owner started up the engine. Mr. Skill's wife was a large, portly woman with a squint in one eye. The other eye hadn't a squint, but a ferocious glare. She didn't like the looks of Mr. Bowser at first sight, and she was ready to pick a fuss with him on the slightest excuse. She got that excuse within five minutes. A ferryboat came out of a slip and whistled for the motorboat to get out of her way. Mr. Bowser was willing enough to do so. He turned the wheel to port and then to starboard and was still turning back and forth when Mrs. Skill cried out:

"See what the idiot is doing! He'll have us under the bow of that ferryboat in a minute more. Take him away from the wheel, some of you!"

Before he had released the wheel Bowser had escaped a collision by a margin of about two feet and the captain of the ferryboat had told him what he thought of him and also of his father and grandfather. When the danger had been averted Mr. Bowser smilingly said in excuse:

"I got a clinder in my eye and could not see for a moment."

"If another clinder comes along it may mean a broken neck for you," replied the woman with the ferocious eye.

Mr. Bowser wobbled the boat along in a tolerably straight course for about a quarter of a mile. Then he had to look out for an ocean liner coming in from the sea. Should he pass to port or starboard of her? He didn't know. The fact that he didn't know put him in a sweat. He finally decided to go to port of her. Then he decided on the contrary. In the midst of his perturbation Mrs. Skill screamed out:

"He's at it again. We'll be drowned this time for sure!"

The three men jumped for Mr. Bowser as before, and there was another struggle to wrench the wheel from him. In the midst of it the engine stopped working, and if the big liner hadn't altered her course by two or three points there would have been a smash and five people drowned. As it was the motorboat was half filled with water from the wash of the steamship's propeller.

"You old liar, but you told me you could run a motorboat!" exclaimed Mr. Skill.

"He couldn't run a plank," added Mrs. Skill.

"We ought to throw him overboard," said the two men in chorus.

Mr. Bowser rose up from the bottom of the boat where he had been floating around and said:

"Ladies and Gentlemen—I told you that I could run a motorboat. I think I got the thing mixed up. I should have told you that I could run a Mississippi river steamboat, and I'll stick to it that I can. I do not ask to take the wheel again."

"But if you are to go along with us this is the end of the trip for me," half shrieked the owner of the ferocious eye.

"Our lunch is all water soaked," announced one of the men.

"And the tackle and bait have been washed overboard," added the other.

After staring at each other for a moment Mr. Skill solemnly said:

"Bowser, you have got to go. I think I can start the engine, and we will land you over there."

Mr. Bowser hadn't a word in reply, and ten minutes later was landed in the woods of Staten Island. He didn't get away, however, without something more from Mrs. Skill. She scrambled ashore after him, saying:

"That half baked idiot has spoiled the day for all of us and I don't propose to let him go so mighty easy. Come on, the rest of you."

Mr. Bowser started on the run as Mrs. Skill picked up a club and before she could administer justice he was lost to sight amid the trees and bushes.

"Didn't the party go fishing?" asked Mrs. Bowser as Mr. Bowser reached home about noon, having a forlorn and abject appearance.

"It has been postponed for two weeks," he calmly lied as he wandered out into the back yard to see if his sun flowers were still living.

Who's Who.
You say that Mrs. Green is coarse and Mr. Green is plain?
Their kin are quite impossible, especially Aunt Jane.

You wonder why we called upon those people in such haste?
Why, Mrs. Green knows Mrs. Brown, whose mother was a White.

And she was nearest neighbor, once, to Mrs. Edward Knight.

Whose sister married Jackson Jones—his mother was a Beers.

And they've been in society for years and years and years.

ODDITIES OF VISION.
Peouliar Optical Effects and the Yellow Spot in the Eye.
If one places a pinhead up close to and directly in front of the eye the head of the pin appears transparent and things may be seen as easily through it as through a sheet of Isinglass, the head appearing simply as a large round cloud. If it is placed somewhat closer no pin or head can be seen at all.
If one goes into a very dark room and puts a lighted candle near the side of one eye very pretty and peculiar effects are observed. A tracery, forming a regular network, can be easily detected, and this is merely the shadow thrown by the candle on the retina of the eye of the small capillary blood vessels between the retina and the candle.
If one looks to the side of a dim star in the heavens the star appears a great deal brighter than direct vision makes it appear. This is because the light in the direct vision falls on what is known as the "yellow spot" or point of keenest vision. As this is not put directly behind the front of the eye the side glance is necessary. Some people can see stars that way that they cannot perceive at all on direct vision.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE WILL BE HELD HERE NEXT WEEK

Governor Willis to Speak at Institute Thursday of Next Week—Recent Action of the County School Board in Declaring Against Annual Institute Is Held Illegal and Teachers Proceed With Arrangements.

Regardless of the recent resolution adopted by the majority members of the County Board of Education in declaring the "old County Teachers' Institute" idea has no place in the present school system and that no funds are available with which to defray expenses and a saving of $2,000 would be made to the county, the executive committee of the Fayette County Teachers' Association has proceeded with all arrangements for the institute and it will be held as usual, next week, August 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 and on Thursday Governor Willis is to be present and address the teachers.

The law requires that a County Board of Education may decide whether or not a teachers' institute will be held, and that the decision must be made prior to the first day.

of February. Last December a resolution stating that an institute would be held was adopted by the Board. Nothing further was done until on July 10th when the majority members of the Board discovered that "the old teachers' institute" idea has no place in the present school system and voted to rescind a supposed action of the Board taken in February, 1915. It was later discovered that no action had been taken in February and that the action to rescind was illegal.

This action aroused quite a great deal of interest among Fayette teachers who favor the teachers' institutes, and the matter was laid before the State School Superintendent who declared that there was nothing to prevent the organization of teachers from proceeding with the institute, and they at once proceeded to do so.

The instructors who will address the teachers are Frank B. Pearson, of the State Department, and Prof. Geoffrey F. Morgan, of Ohio University. Dean Williams will visit the institute Thursday and Friday and Governor Willis has signified his intention of addressing the teachers Thursday afternoon.

The program is given below.

NEWS OF THE DIAMOND

Athletics vs. Presbys. A baseball treat of this week is a game scheduled for Wednesday afternoon between the Athletics and the Presbyterians, the latter winners of the Sunday school league pennant.

The game will be played at Athletic park and will begin promptly at 2:30 o'clock.

The contest will undoubtedly be quite worth while. The Presbyterians have made not only an unusual, but really an extraordinary showing this year. They have not lost a single game in their league race, but what is more to their glory is the fact that in a great majority of their contests their victories have been shutouts.

Manager Hamer McDole of the Presbyterians insures that the game will not be "horse play."

The lineups of the two teams, as announced Tuesday are as follows:

Athletics—Woods, c; Ross, p; Backenstoe, 1b; Runnels, 2b; Cotterill, ss; McAllister, 3b; Noon, lf; Underwood, cf; Mobley, rf.
Presbyterians—R. Judy, 2b; E. July, c; Groover, 3b; Sheets, ss; Whitely, cf; Swartz, rf; Highmiller, lf; McGinnis, 1b; Gregg, Lanum, p.

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

Big luscious plums, Ohio peaches, Early Harvest apples, home grown tomatoes, the advance guard of the Tip Top canteloupes from Indiana and the sadly belated sweet potato are among the debutantes of the fruit and vegetable market "coming out" during the past few days.

The sweet potatoes are imported but excellent and are retailing at 8 cents per pound, 2 pounds for 15 cents. Plums are fat and plentiful. Abundance and Goose plums are the first to appear and are going at 5 and 10 cents per quart.

The first of the Indiana Tip Top canteloupes blossomed out in the grocery shelves and the sidewalk stands Tuesday. They are beauties and going easy at 15, 20 and 25 cents. Early harvest apples, all of good grade, are pouring onto the market. These and Transparents are selling at 6 pounds for 25 cents. Home grown tomatoes are coming in and are of first class. They are selling at 5 cents per pound.

Oranges, the last of the Valentias, are getting scarce. They will advance in price until the "between seasons" scarcity is over and the new stock comes in. They are now going at 25 to 40 cents per dozen. Bananas are extra good just now, having had excellent growing weather, and sell at 15 and 20 cents per dozen.

California lemons retail at 25 cents and are of first quality. There are a few Messinas left on the market, selling at 13c, but these will not last long.

Georgia watermelons are selling at 30 and 35 cents. Georgia and Texas peaches retail at 10 cents per pound, 3 pounds for 25 cents. There are some Ohio peaches now on the market, mostly Klings, and selling at from 5 cents to 8 cents per pound.

Kentucky Wonder beans are abundant. They are now retailing at 7 cents a pound but are expected to take a drop within a very few days. Sweet corn is coming in fast and going out at 15 cents per dozen.

Blackberries are still hanging on but they're scarce and are not expected to last another week. The demand is largely in excess of the supply.

mittee of the city council began its investigation, and the State Public Utilities Commission is considering the starting of an inquiry. Governor Dunne has been urged to call a special session of the legislature, and the sanitary board will see to the appointment of an investigation board.

Bids for the raising of the Eastland will be received today, and until this work is completed it is probable that the number of lives lost in the disaster cannot be definitely computed. Late estimates place the total dead at between 1,000 and 1,200.

State's Attorney Hoyne declared that Captain Pederson of the Eastland told him that federal sanction for increasing the boat's carrying capacity was "arranged."

AUTO DEMOLISHES TRAFFIC INDICATOR

An automobile, driven by Dr. L. L. Brock, in the rush of traffic at the Court and Main street intersection Monday afternoon, ran into the "Keep to the Right" traffic indicator in the center of the street, instantly reducing it to junk. The machine was undamaged.

TATERS GROW ON TOP OF VINES

Potatoes growing on vines above the ground. Another chance for Luther Burbank! What would you say if one of your friends told you that he was raising Irish potatoes on vines above ground in plain view?

Well, this is exactly what Mr. Elmer McGraw, of Buckskin township, has done, and he has the goods to prove it, too, in the form of the vine with the potatoes sticking on it yet. This vine, at present, is on exhibition at the county sheriff's office.

Mr. McGraw is a plain, ordinary potato grower of Buckskin township, and is no relation of Luther Burbank's. Nevertheless, he has accomplished something that Burbank never did. The vine on which the potatoes grew is an ordinary Early Ohio potato vine, about a foot or a foot and a half in height. On this vine, at the points of juncture of the leaves with the main stalk, thirty-one little potatoes have developed, ranging in size from that of an egg to that of a hickory nut, and of various shapes, but all resembling potatoes, and really being potatoes. On the same vine which bore the 31 above ground potatoes, there were also, beneath the sod, three large Early Ohio potatoes of the finest kind. —Scioto Gazette.

Port Au Prince, Haiti, July 27. — The revolutionary movement against President Guillaume showed itself in Port Au Prince again today. After several hours of fighting at the presidential palace, where Guillaume made a courageous defense against the revolutionists, the president took refuge in the French legation with his family.

The palace was on fire. Rebellious government troops attacked the palace, firing upon it for two hours. A few royal troops and his personal staff supported the president.

There has been a reign of terror in Port Au Prince for ten days.

Before stonewall fences and cobblestone roads vanish under the vandals' march of progress steps should be taken to preserve a few specimens in their pristine beauty and simplicity.

GREATEST ENVELOPING MOVE IN ALL HISTORY

War Observers Say Teutons Endeavoring to Envelop Entire Russian Army About Polish Capital.

ITALIANS WINNING HARDEST BATTLE FOUGHT DURING WAR

Germanic Forces Still Gaining in East, But Russians Repel Attacks at Many Points—Frightful Carnage of Austrians in Gory Battle With Italians—Austrian Fleet Bombards Adriatic Ports—Forty German Boats Sunk in Black Sea.

By Associated Press.
London, July 27.—The magnitude of the German enveloping movement on the eastern front absorbs the attention of England. Reports show thirty thousand German cavalry to be within 80 miles of the railway connecting Petrograd and Warsaw, the main northward railway artery to the Russian capital, while the southern army is approaching the main artery to Odessa.

today bombarded several points and villages on the railroad which runs along the shore of the Adriatic from Ancon to Pesaro. At the same time, two aviators dropped bombs on Pesaro. None of the attacks caused damage, nor injured anyone.

London, July 27.—The German advance on Warsaw continues today to be the most important development in the field of war. It is being conducted with energy and the Russian resistance has brought furious fighting along a wide front.

Latest reports indicate that the German movement is progressing. The Russians admit the Germans are attacking the advance defenses of Nova Georgievsk, 15 miles northwest of Warsaw but at the same time, cite a number of instances in which the Germans have been either repulsed or unsuccessful in their attacks.

This is notable at Pultusk, 30 miles north of the capital of Russian-Poland. At Ivangorod also, 55 miles southeast of Warsaw, attacks by German troops have been successfully repulsed.

The battle is still raging with terrific fury on almost the whole front between the Vepz and the Bug rivers. Furthermore, Petrograd announces the destruction in the Black sea of 40 sailing vessels, laden with coal for Germany.

BAYONNE STRIKE ENDS

New York, July 27.—About 1,500 men, who had been on strike for several days, returned to work today.

in the oil plants in Bayonne, N. J. The sheriff declared the strike was broken, and that by tomorrow other strikers would be back at work, several hundred guards at the plants removed, and an increase in pay granted the employes by the end of the week.

BRITISH ARE LOSING 13,000 EVERY WEEK

By Associated Press.
London, July 27.—Premier Asquith announced that the total casualties of the British army and navy have reached 330,995, in killed, wounded and missing. Of these 9,106 were in the navy, the others in the army.

On April 11, it was stated in parliament the total losses were 139,317. If these figures were correct, in the last 19 weeks the losses have averaged 13,000 a week.

SIR EDWARD GRAY.
Who Today Requested Secretary Lansing to Hold up Great Britain's Note, Stating New Note Will Supplant One Just Received—A Most Extraordinary Request.

NEW NOTE TO CHANGE ONE JUST RECEIVED

Extraordinary Action of England in Asking That Last Note Be Withheld From Publication Forecasts Radical Changes, Probably Due to the Tone of America's Note to Germany—New Note Now Being Prepared.

By Associated Press.
Washington, July 27.—Sir Edward Gray cabled Secretary Lansing today that the British government has in preparation another note to the United States on the orders in council, and asked that the note delivered yesterday be withheld from publication, pending receipt of the new communication.

Therefore, yesterday's note will not be published tomorrow morning, as had been planned. Secretary Lansing said the message from London stated the new note would be here in another week.

In official quarters the development was regarded as highly significant. The belief revealed that the last American note to Germany, with reference to the freedom of the seas, may have influenced Great Britain to place herself on record as willing to take under consideration any new suggestions by the United States to the belligerents.

Sir Edward Gray's request that the note received yesterday be withheld, was taken to mean, at all events, that a new situation had arisen, or that some new proposals were about to be made by Great Britain to alleviate the affect of the order in council.

DUNLAP STILL LACKS VOTE

Columbus, July 27.—Rennick W. Dunlap, of Kingston, needed only one more vote within the board, to be elected secretary of the new board of agriculture, at its second meeting today, it was said. The position carries a salary of $4,000 a year.

Doubt was expressed by members, whether a secretary would be elected for several months. In that case, John Begg, president of the board, would continue to act as secretary.

Governor Willis still declined to indicate his choice for secretary, members who conferred with him today declared.

PROBERS TRYING TO PLACE BLAME

Indications in Eastland Tragedy Point to Overcrowding of the "Crank of the Lakes" Under Consent of Federal Inspectors—827 Bodies Recovered and 393 Still Missing—Vessel Had 2700 Persons Aboard—Eight Probes Are Launched—State and Federal Investigators Clash.

Chicago, July 27.—The State's Attorney said today that probably 2,700 persons were on the Eastland when she turned over. There were 2,550 tickets in round numbers collected, he declared, and children under five were not counted; and those between five and twelve went two on a ticket.

The bodies rescued show that many children of this age went on the boat, he said. The ship had a crew of 70 and an orchestra of at least half a dozen, according to the attorney.

At noon the official list of dead and missing was: Identified dead, 822; unidentified dead, 5; missing, (Western Electric Company list), 393; total, 1,220. Several persons listed as dead or missing proved to be alive today.

Scores of funerals passed through the west side suburb today, and many will be held tomorrow, which has been named "Black Wednesday."

Taking of testimony at the coroner's inquest began today. The first person to testify was a passenger who was saved. He declared eight or ten minutes elapsed between the time the boat first started to list badly and when she finally overturned. There would have been time for warning, he asserted, but none was given.

Chicago, July 27.—With the arrival here today of Secretary of Commerce Redfield, steps were taken to determine what form the federal investigation into the cause of the capsizing of the steamship Eastland, at her dock Saturday, shall take.

Secretary Redfield, following President Wilson's request for a thorough investigation, is prepared to go into the case independently of the federal inspection service, but will not announce his conclusions until he has had time to make a personal examination of conditions.

With the entry of the cabinet member into the case, no less than eight separate investigations are in progress, or contemplated, with the situation complicated by clash between State's Attorney Hoyne and federal authorities, over the possession of evidence gathered by the Chicago police, and which the latter, on demand, turned over to the government agents for presentation to the federal grand jury.

The county grand jury started its hearing at the criminal court building and the coroner's jury began the taking of testimony at the county building.

United States District Attorney Clyne began the calling of witnesses for the federal grand jury. A com-

19 MINERS ENTOMBED

Christopher, Ill., July 27.—Nine teen miners were trapped in one of the entrances of Moderwell mine No. 1 here today, by an explosion of gas. Six miners, badly burned, made their way to safety.

The accident occurred four hundred feet below the surface. Five hundred men are employed in the mine, but they use several entrances and only a few were at the entrance near which the explosion occurred.

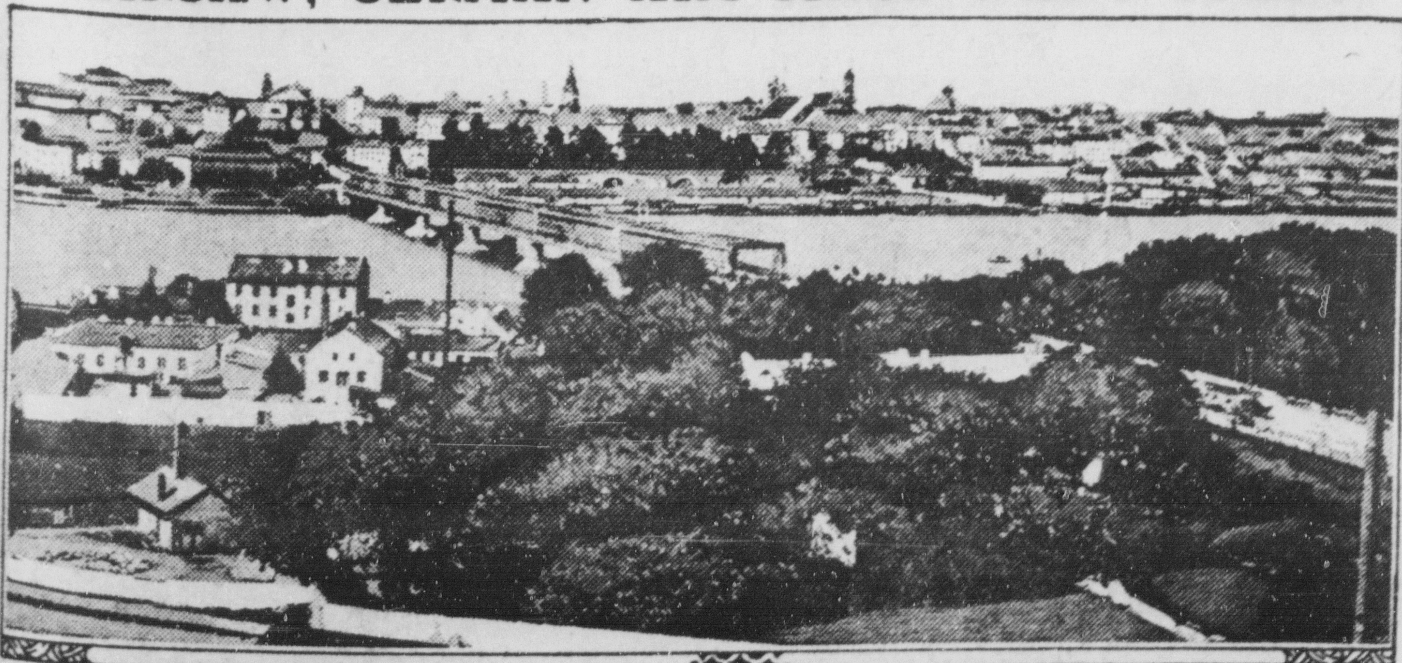

Eight men were killed and fifteen badly burned in the explosion. Three men are missing. All others escaped.

SINKING OF LEELANAW NOT "UNFRIENDLY" ACT

Washington, July 27.—Indications are that the torpedoing of the American steamer Leelanaw by a German submarine off the coast of Scotland will constitute a case very similar to that of the Frye, now a subject of controversy with Germany, and that the act will not be regarded as "deliberately unfriendly," of which President Wilson gave warning in his last note.

NEED OF CASH IS IMPERATIVE

Columbus, July 27.—Governor Willis and the adjutant general's department have redoubled their efforts to collect food supplies for starving miners in the Ohio coal fields. Reports to Colonel E. S. Bryant from the captains who accompanied the first shipment into the coal fields were that the food quickly ran short and that only about half the families who are in dire need were supplied. "Cash is the imperative need now," said Colonel Bryant. "Our department is able to buy food in large quantities at the lowest possible prices and buy it near the coal fields, so quick distribution may be had. Cash subscriptions should be sent either to Governor Willis personally or to the adjutant general's department."

Washington, July 27.—The American bark Dunsrve, taken into Swinemunde by German warships, has been transferred to Stettin. MR. WILSON DEMANDS THE TRUTH

President Wilson Demands Facts In Eastland Case.

SOLICITOR THURMAN ENGAGED

National Capital For Chicago, Where He Will Assist In The Taking of Testimony—Effort to Shift Responsibility For the Chicago River Horror—Latest Estimate of the Dead.

Chicago, July 27.—Chicago is burying its dead while divers continue to bring lifeless forms to the surface from the excursion ship Eastland, and investigations to fix responsibility are under way.

Coroner Hoffman and other officials, after a careful examination of the list of the dead identified, unidentified and known missing, puts the total loss of life in the disaster at 1,500. Firemen and the divers who have explored the lower sections of the great steel tomb insist there are still 500 bodies locked within the hull.

Steps were taken towards punishing those responsible for the appalling loss of life by the federal, state and municipal authorities, and indications point that the inquiries will be the most sweeping of the kind ever held. The machinery of the federal government was set in motion by President Wilson when, at his summer home in Cornish, N. H., he communicated with Secretary Redfield of the department of commerce and labor to take a hand in the investigation and ascertain if there were any violations of the criminal law.

Shifting Responsibility.
Reports also came from Washington that there was a "manifest shifting of responsibility in department circles for the Great Lakes inspection service." So great was the storm of criticism in the national capital that a congressional investigation was talked of. Serious charges which, if substantiated, warrant criminal prosecution even if no loss of life were involved, have been made against the service.

Bert L. Thurman, solicitor general of the department, left Washington for Chicago to assist in the taking of testimony. Eugene T. Chamberlain, commissioner of navigation of the commerce department, may also come to Chicago.

"There will be no whitewashing in this inquiry," said a federal official. "President Wilson is at the helm in a personal and particular way. The president has demanded facts, and he is getting them."

Solicitor Thurman is bringing with him to Chicago the only protest ever filed with the department against the steamer Eastland. It was made in 1906 by George J. Schmitt, when the Eastland was running between Chicago and South Haven.

The grand jury, under Foreman George A. Hughes, visited the wreck of the Eastland and made a thorough inspection of the hull. The jury was particularly impressed with the fact that bow and stern lines which had moored the craft to its wharf were still attached.

Cause of the Disaster.
Empty ballast tanks below and overcrowded decks above was the terse summary made to explain the Eastland catastrophe. Others familiar with the operation and construction of the boat declared she previously had carried more passengers than were aboard Saturday and that lack of ballast in the water tanks, it is believed, was the real cause of the capsizing.

"We are going into the question of overcrowding and the lack of ballast," said State's Attorney Hoyne. "Criminal responsibility can be placed on somebody."

Out on the far West Side the pall of mourning that shrouds Chicago deepens to its darkest over the community about Cicero. Here, in the territory which surrounds the plant of the Western Electric company, fell the heaviest blow when the crowded Eastland toppled over. The territory includes Hawthorne, where the toll was highest; Morton Park, Warren Park, Grant works and Clyde. And in every block in each of these suburbs the shaft of sorrow was struck home.

Eight more members of the crew of the Eastland were taken into custody, making fifty-two of the seventy officers and men now under arrest. They were taken to the state attorney's office and caused to make statements concerning the wreck and then locked up.

BECKER IS GRANTED A RESPITE

Court Reserves Decision on Appeal For New Trial.

New York, July 27.—Charles Becker's last plea for a reversal of the verdict of the jury which found him guilty of murder has been made but not decided, and the legal points involved are so intricate that Justice Ford has granted Becker a two-day respite.

After W. Bourke Cockran, chief of Becker's counsel, had urged upon Supreme Court Justice Ford for four hours that new evidence of sufficient weight had been uncovered to merit a new trial for the condemned man, Assistant District Attorney Robert C. Taylor argued that the new evidence, even if true, could not under the law command a new trial.

Justice Ford reserved decision and counsel for both sides will submit briefs on the legal points this afternoon. Then Justice Ford called upon Thomas Mott Osborne, warden of Sing Sing, on the telephone, explained the situation to him and said it would be advisable to postpone Becker's execution until late so that he will not have to hurry with his decision.

Wednesday morning at 5:45 had been fixed as the time, and the invitations had been sent out, but Warden Osborne readily agreed to postpone Becker's death until Friday morning, at the same time. The law has decreed that Becker is to die this week, but it is within the warden's powers to decide at what time during the week.

Summer Travel Depleted

Whether or not Americans are spending the money usually spent in Europe in their own country this summer, and there is little to indicate that they are, it is an absolute certainty that Europe is not receiving much of it.

There has been considerable discussion as to the average amount of money spent by American tourists each year on the continent, and estimates range from the very conservative one of $220,000,000 to the great sum of $500,000,000.

These figures are computed upon the amount spent in transportation, hotel bills and incidentals of traveling and do not take into consideration the large sums spent for jewels, clothing, art treasures and souvenirs of all kinds, purchased to greater or less extent by almost all tourists.

There have been years when importations of art objects alone have gone as high as $50,000,000.

This year it is claimed by steamship authorities that not twenty-five per cent of normal are crossing the ocean and those who are taking the risks of the voyage are largely doing so for business reasons, with no inteneion of the tourists' extravagance.

The lack of the enormous sums formerly pouring freely into the banks of the continent from this country still further depletes the decreasing revenues of Europe and statistics also show a big falling off in the personal remittances which in normal years sometimes reaches $200,000,000.

If Americans spend but a part of these great sums which have been stimulating Europe's financial credit, in their own country, it will be beneficial in the United States.

However, it is probable that the business conditions in this country, so largely changed by the foreign war, will not permit the extravagant outlay heretofore practiced, without curtailing, by wealthy tourists and pleasure seekers.

The well known business depression resulting from the war affects the millionaire class far beyond the ordinary business fluctuation, and there are many people of the so called extremely rich, as well as those of ordinary means, who are indulging in far less than their usual expenditure for summer travel this year.

Strange as it seems, in the land of the United States' well known patriotism, there is also a large class of people, especially in the east, to whom nothing appeals like the trip abroad and who have little real interest in the wonders of our great west, in the "Alps of America," in the scenic grandure of the Grand Canyon, the Yellow Stone National Park, the Yosemite Valley, the magnificence of Alaska and the panoramas of beauty as they are unfolded in different types of nature's painting, throughout the entire United States.

It may be the fact that the uncertainty of business conditions leads to money retrenchment, but it must be admitted that the millions spent in European travel each summer are not being poured to any such extent into similar channels at home.

Devastated Nations Will Turn to America For Aid In Rehabilitation

By ALEXANDER J. HEMPHILL, Chairman Guaranty Trust Company, New York

THE destruction and wastage of capital occasioned by the war has been estimated on the basis of a year's duration at forty billion dollars, AND, WHILE IT MAY NOT BE NECESSARY TO RESTORE ALL OF THIS AT ONCE, FROM PRESENT INDICATIONS THE DEMAND ON US WILL BE ENORMOUS.

First, there will be the call on our merchants to furnish materials in connection with the rehabilitation or rebuilding of the devastated country, and, second, we will have to give credit either through making direct loans or through the repurchase of American securities held abroad.

From present indications the foreign investors will part from our securities slowly and will be tempted to liquidate only at high prices.

It is more than probable that several of the foreign countries will ask us for some of our gold in order that they may restore or build up their gold reserves. These demands upon our financial resources seem to presage more than an active and firm money market.

Poetry For Today

THE BRAVE AT HOME.

The maid who binds her warrior's sash
With smile that well her pain dissembles,
The while beneath her drooping lash
One starry teardrop hangs and trembles.
Through Heaven alone records her tear,
And Fame shall never know her story,
Her heart has shed a drop as dear
As e'er bedewed the field of glory.

The wife who girds her husband's sword,
'Mid little ones who weep or wonder,
And bravely speaks the cheering
word,
What though her heart be rent
asunder,
Doomed nightly in her dreams to hear
The bolts of death around him rattle,
Hath shed as sacred blood as e'er
Was poured upon the field of battle!

The mother who conceals her grief
While to her breast her son she presses,
Then breathes a few brave words and
brief,
Kissing the patriot brow she blesses.
With no one but her secret God
To know the pain that weighs upon her
Sheds holy blood as e'er the sod
Received on Freedom's field of honor.

WILSON TO ACT IN THE MEX. FUSS

Definite Step to Be Taken In the Near Future.

WOULD SETTLE THE PROBLEM

One Plan Contemplates Efforts to Assemble Mexican Leaders Who Would Arrange For a Constitutional Convention—Changes in the Military Situation in the Vicinity of Mexico City—Villa Reported in Flight.

Washington, July 27.—Authoritative announcement comes from the state department that a definite step toward settling the Mexican problem will be taken by the United States government in the near future.

President Wilson is understood to be reviewing several suggested courses in his mind. His decision probably will not become known before his return to Washington from Cornish, N. H. Mr. Wilson is known to have been reviewing the situation for some time, the warring Mexican factions having failed to heed his suggestion of two months ago that they accommodate their differences and restore peace in the distressed country. Apparently he has determined that the other measures which the Washington government announced it must take if the battle of the factions continued, must now be resorted to.

Officials in close touch with the president think he has not finally determined what is to be done. His most probable course, it was reported, would be to urge General Carranza for the last time to confer with other faction leaders in an effort to bring about peace. Should Carranza again refuse, this plan, it is said, contemplates efforts to assemble other Mexican leaders, who will represent a majority of the Mexican people.

Such a conference, it has been suggested, might be held in northern Mexico, if it is possible to free it from military interference. If not, it might be held across the border in the United States.

May Issue Address.

The conferences would arrange for a constitutional convention which would plan for an election and the establishment of a government which the United States would recognize and help to maintain.

If such a step is undertaken by the United States, it is not known whether President Wilson will issue another address to the Mexican people and leaders or whether the second suggestion for a conference would be presented to the various chiefs through official representatives in Mexico of this government.

Changes in the military situation in the vicinity of Mexico City were reported from several sources. The Carranza agency here was advised from Vera Cruz that General Gonzales was returning to Mexico City, the Villa flying column under General
Fierro having fled northward from Pachuca without a battle.

A state department report from Mexico City dated July 20 said the capital was quiet and that water and light service had been restored, but that the food situation was causing great concern. The Zapata forces were reported at that time 200 miles from the city, under command of General Castillo.

LOCAL PEOPLE IMploRED TO HELP STARVING MINERS

Mayor Coffey Receives Telegram From Governor Willis.

Mayor Coffey Tuesday morning received from Governor Willis a telegram, calling upon the people of this community to join in the statewide movement for the relief of the starving families of southern Ohio miners, whose destitution is a result of the recent coal strikes.

The mayor adds his voice to that of the governor, whose message, a duplicate of which has been sent to every city of importance in the state, is as follows:

"I appeal to you most earnestly to lend every possible assistance in alleviating dire distress among miners and their families in southern Ohio.

"Please use your influence with your business men, associations, churches and civic bodies to rush supplies to the adjutant general's department. State officials will see to the proper distribution. The situation demands immediate relief.

"FRANK B. WILLIS."

The condition of hundreds of families in lower Ohio is more serious than most persons realize. Starvation in these localities is not only threatening but has entered the first stages of reality.

Local people wishing to aid in the work of relief should get in touch with Mayor Coffey.

COL. MILLIKAN HAD EASTLAND TURNED ABOUT

That the action of the late Col. B. H. Millikan in 1913 probably saved a tragedy on Lake Erie is indicated in a story related by Mr. Harry Gunning, traveling salesman of the Dahl-Millikan Company. Col. Millikan, according to Mr. Gunning, ordered the Eastland back to the wharf because she appeared unsafe, and part of the wharf was torn away in attempting a landing.

Mr. Gunning is quoted by the Chillicothe Gazette as follows:

"In the year 1913, when the Dahl-Millikan people were having their excursion, and they had their headquarters at Cedar Point, Ohio, the Eastland steamer was there for the purpose of carrying the excursionists to Put-in-Bay. At that time Colonel Millikan was in charge of the party, and it was on this trip that something unusual was noticed. As it happened, the ship had just started for Put-in-Bay and had gone only a short distance, when it turned and sought the wharf again. In landing much trouble was experienced. Nearly the whole of the wharf was torn down by the unruly Eastland. Later it was learned that Colonel Millikan had found that the steamer was not considered altogether safe, and for that reason he had the steamer returned to the dock. Not long after that, on the same excursion, the steamer ran aground and a tug worked for three hours trying to get her off the shoal.

"In talking with one of the extra officers, later, he told me and another salesman with me, that he had

WILL OPEN PART OF STREET NEXT WEEK

The work of grouting the newly paved Washington avenue, from Ely street to Elm street is now under way, and sometime next week that portion of the avenue will be thrown open to traffic and it will be possible for vehicles to come into or leave the city by way of Washington avenue and over Elm street, so that a long detour will no longer be necessary after the avenue is once opened into Elm street.

The street has been paved to a point more than 100 yards west of the Elm street intersection, and by the end of this week the entire concrete base will be laid on the street and most of the brick placed in position, so that by the first of week after next the entire street may once more be thrown open to traffic, or at least as far as the intersection of East and Ogle streets.

The work of opening East Court street will be under way within a few days if present plans are carried out. Court street from North to the intersection of Columbus and Washington avenues will be paved with asphalt, thus eliminating much of the noise which usually comes with paved streets.

BURNING OF DEBRIS INSIDE CITY MUST BE DISCONTINUED

Since the tornado, Health Officer John Byron finds himself confronted with a new difficulty. This difficulty grows out of the disposal some persons are making of the debris created by the storm.

In all sections of the city many branches and twigs and leaves were stripped from trees by the storm. Many people did not immediately dispose of these, and recently have been having big bonfires, in which all sorts of refuse has been mixed with the brush.

These fires have been going in all parts of the city, and especially in Millwood, it is said. In some of the outskirt quarters of the city they are allowed to burn in the streets. The smoke from these fires has been not only annoying but unhealthful.

Realizing the extent of the difficulty Officer Byron feels compelled to resort to quick and effective measures, and Monday issued the following statement:

"I wish to call the attention of the public to an ordinance regulating the disposal of brush, garbage and refuse of all kinds. No person is permitted to dump garbage, brush or refuse of any kind inside the city limits.

"The burning of brush or refuse is positively prohibited, day or night. Since the recent storm the burning of brush has been going on in some parts of the city. These fires smolder for days, throw out obnoxious odors, are unhealthful and must be discontinued.

"The health laws cover these violations. If necessary the law will be used to get results.

"JOHN BYRON,
"Health Officer."

WILL PROTEST AGAINST DIRT

North street citizens, along the section recently paved, are beginning to think seriously of making written protest in an effort to obtain proper cleaning of the street.

When the contractor opened the street he left a liberal sprinkling of sand which since has become thoroughly mixed with dirt and other refuse so that every passing vehicle leaves a cloud of unwholesome dust behind, and the filth settles over everything along the street, making life unpleasant not only to residents of the street, but to pedestrians and all travelers over the street.

It is expected that a petition will be directed to council asking that the city furnish a flusher or other means of cleaning the newly paved thoroughfares.

In Social Circles

The "buds" again enjoyed a social affair Tuesday morning with Miss Eleanor McClain and Miss Nelle Cissna winsome young hostesses at the McClain home.

It was an extremely pretty party with a yellow and white color scheme artistically employed in elaborate decorations. Inside nasturtiums and radioli filled vases and bowls and adorning the large verandah was a profusion of golden glow and cosmos.

Sixty young girls brought their busy work and found the cool shade of the verandah and grounds, with the delightful hospitalities extended, most attractive.

Creating diversion was an "animal moulding" contest, in which Miss Jessie Snikle won the favor, a dainty corsage bouquet of sweet peas.

A delicious collation was served, with the yellow and white colors introduced in the menu and the favors yellow and white crocheted baskets of confections.

NOT MUCH INTEREST IN TUESDAY'S STOCK SALE

A marked decrease in offerings and an even more marked lack of spirit among buyers and sellers were features of the stock sale here Tuesday.

Much quibbling over figures resulted in few sales. Practically all of the buyers, or prospective buyers, were agents seeking animals for eastern stables supplying animals for war usage in Europe.

RUSSIANS HOLDING MACKENSEN

Latter's Attempt to Seize the Lublin-Chelm Railway Meets With No Success—Von Buelow Continues Drive South From Courland—Italians Report Progress Against the Austrians. Aeroplane Attack Submarine.

London, July 27.—Dispatches from the eastern front state that Field Marshal Von Mackensen's sustained effort to throw any considerable body of Austro-German troops astride the Lublin-Chelm railway having met with no success, the Germans are now centering their main offensive north of the Warsaw salient and, having crossed the Narew river along a forty mile front, are driving the Russians toward the Bug where it joins with the Narew north of the Polish capital. Warsaw still holds out, but the general belief is held here that its loss by the Russians is only a matter of time.

Dispatches reaching London from Petrograd predict that the much discussed climax to the great struggle in Poland will come within a fortnight, with simultaneous attacks upon the city from the north and south.

In the meantime General Von Buelow's troops, driving south from Courland, are thirty-five miles southeast of Shavil, having reached the Poniewsch railway line, which the German cavalry is attempting to seize, preparatory to cutting the more important Kovno-Vina line.

A Rome dispatch says that it is semi-officially announced that since the war began Italy has taken approximately 20,000 Austrian prisoners, including fifty officers. More than 300 officers have been captured since July 28 in the battle of the Isonzo. Operations on the Carso plateau are said to be progressing favorably to the Italians. In Carnia and in the Monte Nero region the Austrians made desperate counter attacks, which were easily repulsed.

An observer at the Dardanelles describes a successful effort on the part of a British aeroplane to prevent a submarine from discharging a torpedo at a British troop ship. The aviator dropped shells so close to the submarine that it was compelled to seek safety under the sea.

GOV'T FIRM ON COTTON MATTER

London, July 27.—Despite the recent agitation by certain sections of the British press that cotton be declared contraband, the government has not changed its decision on this point. This is indicated by a statement made in the house of commons by Lord Robert Cecil, parliamentary undersecretary for foreign affairs, who said that Great Britain did not want to deal unfairly with neutrals.

BODY OF CINCINNATI MAN IS RECOVERED

Queenstown, July 27.—The body of Victor S. Shields, who went down with the Lusitania, was washed ashore and identified. Shields was a first cabin passenger and his home was in Cincinnati.

The above is a picture of the Pilot Car and occupants which led the Columbus Trade Boosters through this city late this afternoon.

BRYAN SPEAKS OF SITUATION

San Francisco, July 27.—William J. Bryan is of the opinion that those who are looking for "the big stick in the Scriptures" would think the writers of holy writ were mollycoddles. Bryan thus expressed himself in an address at the First Congregational church. The keynote of Mr. Bryan's address was that the United States has no warrant to conceive war against Germany or any other European power. "To go to war with Germany now," he said, "would be like challenging an insane asylum."

MR. SHANKLIN COMING HOME

Havana, July 27.—Former American Consul General at Mexico City, Shanklin arrived here on his way to Washington and declined to say anything regarding affairs in Mexico or the recent attack made against him by the Brazilian minister to Mexico, Oliveira, who is administering the affairs of the United States in Mexico. Other arrivals, however, said that the Brazilian minister was wrong in his complaint of Mr. Shanklin's actions. They say that he asked Mr. Shanklin to ascertain the number of Americans in Mexico City, and that in accordance with this request Mr. Shanklin advertised, asking Americans to register with "Consul General Shanklin." The Brazilian minister thereupon asserted with anger that Mr. Shanklin had no right to call himself the consul general, according to the arrivals from Mexico City.

LIFE AND LONGEVITY.

Simply Prolonging One's Days on Earth Is Not Real Living.

What really constitutes life? Is it action, or is it merely existence? Who is the more useful, the man who gives his all in energy to service or he who conserves his forces and thereby prolongs his days? He lives most who accomplishes most. Activity in useful, productive or constructive effort is the real test of life. Length of years may content some, but restless, energetic souls will press forward, regardless of time, striving for a goal they may never attain, but always striving, and these only really live.

Life insurance presidents, being interested in the prolongation of existence of risks, bend their efforts to the teaching of elements of living, the avoidance of excesses, exposures or unnecessary risks of any kind and in this way really serve the world because they increase the productive years of man.

As a result of modern methods man really lives longer and better, but this is not the all in all of life. To live is to be active, to have a part in the creative effort of mankind, regardless of whether the span be long or short, so long as it is busy, for "an end is an end, whether it cometh on the winged heels of a week or the dull stretch of a century."—Omaha Bee.

at Barbizon and "try to do something really good."

It was then that he began to paint that most beautiful poem of poverty, "The Angelus," which is today one of the most valuable pictures in the world. Again and again he threw aside the picture in despair of ever finishing it to his satisfaction, and as often his wife replaced it on the easel and induced him to continue.

On one occasion he was so incensed at not being able to produce a certain effect that he seized a knife and would have destroyed the canvas and ended the matter once for all had not his wife fortunately seized his hand and induced him to give the picture another trial.

Thus it was that at last "The Angelus" found a place on the walls of the Louvre. The success it won encouraged Millet to paint many more pictures and thus place himself among the immortals in art.

The lone tally, which undid the results of fine box work by Adams, came on a fluke single by Moran, Evers' sacrifice and Magee's hit. DO YOUR VERY BEST.
Be Earnest and Thorough and You Are Bound to Succeed.

There is a feature of Dickens' character which cannot be too often or too seriously insisted upon, and that is his intense earnestness and thoroughness in everything he did. He said to me more than once:

"My dear boy, do everything at your best. If you do that neither I nor any one else can find fault with you, even if you fail. For myself, I can honestly say that I have taken as great pains with the smallest thing I ever did as with the biggest."

In giving advice to a young author he said on one occasion:

"If you want your public to believe in what you write you must believe in it yourself. When I am describing a scene I can as distinctly see what I am describing as I can see you now. So real are my characters to me that on one occasion I had fixed upon the course which one of them was to pursue. The character, however, got hold of me and made me do exactly the opposite to what I had intended, but I was so sure that he was right and I was wrong that I let him have his own way."

Whatever he did either in work or at play he always gave of his very best. He hated slackness or half heartedness in any shape or form.—Harper's Weekly.

Futility of Argument.
Plato defined man as "a two legged animal without feathers." Diogenes, who heard this, plucked a cock. "This is Plato's man," said he. But never you think the old timer lacked a "come-back." He added to his original definition the words, "With broad flat nails." Such is the futility of argument.—Springfield Republican.

Passionate people always deny their anger, and cowards often boast their ignorance of fear.

Bowser Goes Fishing
But He Does Not Catch Even a Whale
By M. QUAD.
Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Bowser had been at the office about five minutes the other morning when his friend, Mr. Skill, came in. After talking a few minutes about the sudden rise in the price of prunes Mr. Skill said:

"Bowser, I am all in."

"So'm I," was the reply.

"I should judge from the looks of you that you are. We have both worked hard during a long, hot spell."

"We have that."

"Unless we take a day off we are on the way to the graveyard. Let's have one day off tomorrow."

"And go out into the country?" queried Mr. Bowser.

"Country? Not much. We will go down the bay fishing, and breathe in some of that ozone which blows in from mid-Atlantic, and we will both come back as fit as fiddies."

"That's it—that's it, hooray! Have you got a boat?"

"A friend of mine will lend me his motorboat, but the trouble is to find some one to run it. I never tried one."

"But I have," replied Bowser. "I can run a motor boat from here to Texas and back as slick as grease."

"Then that settles it, old man. Our party will be composed of us two, my

"Bully for us!" exclaimed Mr. Bowser. "We will fish and fish and fish. We will catch bass and pike and pickerel and dolphins and sharks and whales and anything else that comes around. By George, I am glad that you suggested it! What time do you want to start?"

"We ought to get away by 7 o'clock in the morning, and Morton's wharf will be a handy place for all of us to meet for the start."

Mr. Bowser had hardly entered his house that evening when Mrs. Bowser knew that something was up. She did not ask what it was, however, nor did he volunteer any information. He was somewhat abstracted during the meal, but when they had reached the sitting room and he had got his cigar alight and was walking to and fro she said:

"I hope you are not thinking of starting out for the north pole?"

"Mrs. Bowser," he replied, "your sour face shows that you are bilious. The dark circles under your eyes show that you are not well. Your dragging step shows weariness. I am not going to suggest a tonic, however."

"It would do no good if you did," she answered. "I was looking in the glass ten minutes before you came, and I have neither a sallow complexion nor have I dark circles. Nobody else seems to have noticed that I drag my feet. Perhaps they have increased in size and weight during the last two or three days."

"If you are feeling well I am sure I am not," said Mr. Bowser in solemn tones. "The fact is I am all run down, and I have neither strength nor ambition to continue my work without at least a brief play spell."

"Well, why don't you take one?" "That's what I'm going to do, and tomorrow is the day."

And he told her about Mr. and Mrs. Skill, the motorboat, the jolly good fellows, the ozone and the fish and wound up with adding:

"It will be like beginning a new life."

"Who is going to run the motorboat?" cautiously asked Mrs. Bowser.

"Why, I am, to be sure!" "Then that settles it; I don't go."

"But why, woman—why?" "Because you know nothing whatever about running a boat of any sort, and I don't want to be drowned."

"I can run a motorboat as easily and safely as you can run a broom across the floor!" shouted Mr. Bowser as his face grew very red.

"But I don't go," persisted Mrs. Bowser.

of a fine looking motorboat and had been told that the price was $450, but that was the limit of his experience. After chewing the rag for three or four minutes he growled:

"You can stay home if you like, but I am going. You would probably spoil our day for us if you went along. Tell the cook to have me a bit of breakfast ready soon after 6 o'clock."

At 7 o'clock next morning Mr. Bowser was at Morton's wharf and found the rest of the party already there. During the night he had dreamed of being drowned in each of the seven seas, but this fact had not lessened his assurance that he could run a motorboat. The owner of the boat may have had his doubts on that point, for he asked of him:

"Have you had much experience?" "Only about fifteen years," was the reply.

"That ought to be plenty. You see you manage the engine from the wheel."

"Sure I see. Don't waste any breath on me."

All got into the boat, Mr. Bowser took the wheel, and the owner started up the engine. Mr. Skill's wife was a large, portly woman with a squint in one eye. The other eye hadn't a squint, but a ferocious glare. She didn't like the looks of Mr. Bowser at first sight, and she was ready to pick a fuss with him on the slightest excuse. She got that excuse within five minutes. A ferryboat came out of a slip and whistled for the motorboat to get out of her way. Mr. Bowser was willing enough to do so. He turned the wheel to port and then to starboard and was still turning back and forth when Mrs. Skill cried out:

"See what the idiot is doing! He'll have us under the bow of that ferryboat in a minute more. Take him away from the wheel, some of you!"

Before he had released the wheel Bowser had escaped a collision by a margin of about two feet and the captain of the ferryboat had told him what he thought of him and also of his father and grandfather. When the danger had been averted Mr. Bowser smilingly said in excuse:

"I got a chlder in my eye and could not see for a moment."

"If another chlder comes along it may mean a broken neck for you," replied the woman with the ferocious eye.

Mr. Bowser wobbled the boat along in a tolerably straight course for about a quarter of a mile. Then he had to look out for an ocean liner coming in from the sea. Should he pass to port or starboard of her? He didn't know. The fact that he didn't know put him in a sweat. He finally decided to go to port of her. Then he decided on the contrary. In the midst of his perturbation Mrs. Skill screamed out:

"He's at it again! We'll be drowned this time for sure!"

The three men jumped for Mr. Bowser as before, and there was another struggle to wrench the wheel from him. In the midst of it the engine stopped working, and if the big liner hadn't altered her course by two or three points there would have been a smash and five people drowned. As it was the motorboat was half filled with water from the wash of the steamship's propeller.

"You old liar, but you told me you could run a motorboat!" exclaimed Mr. Skill.

"He couldn't run a plank," added Mrs. Skill.

"We ought to throw him overboard," said the two men in chorus.

Mr. Bowser rose up from the bottom of the boat where he had been floating around and said:

"Ladies and Gentlemen—I told you that I could run a motorboat. I think I got the thing mixed up. I should have told you that I could run a Mississippi river steamboat, and I'll stick to it that I can. I do not ask to take the wheel again."

"But if you are to go along with us this is the end of the trip for me," half shrieked the owner of the ferocious eye.

"Our lunch is all water soaked," announced one of the men.

"And the tackle and bait have been washed overboard," added the other.

After staring at each other for a moment Mr. Skill solemnly said:

"Bowser, you have got to go. I think I can start the engine, and we will land you over there."

Mr. Bowser hadn't a word in reply, and ten minutes later was landed in the woods of Staten Island. He didn't get away, however, without something more from Mrs. Skill. She scrambled ashore after him, saying,

"That half baked idiot has spoiled the day for all of us and I don't propose to let him go so mighty easy. Come on, the rest of you."

Mr. Bowser started on the run as Mrs. Skill picked up a club and before she could administer justice he was lost to sight amid the trees and bushes.

"Didn't the party go fishing?" asked Mrs. Bowser as Mr. Bowser reached home about noon, having a forlorn and abject appearance.

"It has been postponed for two weeks," he calmly lied as he wandered out into the back yard to see if his sun flowers were still living.

You say that Mrs. Green is coarse and Mr. Green is plain?

Their kin are quite impossible, especially Aunt Jane.

You say they've never traveled and they all have shocking taste?

ODDITIES OF VISION.

Peculiar Optical Effects and the Yellow Spot in the Eye.

If one places a pinhead up close to and directly in front of the eye the head of the pin appears transparent and things may be seen as easily through it as through a sheet of isinglass, the head appearing simply as a large round cloud. If it is placed somewhat closer no pin or head can be seen at all.

If one goes into a very dark room and puts a lighted candle near the side of one eye very pretty and peculiar effects are observed. A tracery, forming a regular network, can be easily detected, and this is merely the shadow thrown by the candle on the retina of the eye of the small capillary blood vessels between the retina and the candle.

If one looks to the side of a dim star in the heavens the star appears a great deal brighter than direct vision makes it appear. This is because the light in the direct view falls on what is known as the "yellow spot" or point of keenest vision. As this is not put directly behind the front of the eye the side glance is necessary. Some people can see stars that way that they cannot perceive at all on direct vision.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

The One Advantage.

"Traded your motor boat for an aeroplane, eh? What's the idea?"

"Well, there's this about an aeroplane—even if the engine does break down, you're bound to land somewhere."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE WILL BE HELD HERE NEXT WEEK

Governor Willis to Speak at Institute Thursday of Next Week—Recent Action of the County School Board in Declaring Against Annual Institute Is Held Illegal and Teachers Proceed With Arrangements.

Regardless of the recent resolution adopted by the majority members of the County Board of Education in declaring the "old County Teachers' Institute idea has no place in the present school system and that no funds are available with which to defray expenses and a saving of $2,000 would be made to the county," the executive committee of the Fayette County Teachers' Association has proceeded with all arrangements for the institute and it will be held as usual, next week, August 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 and on Thursday Governor Willis is to be present and address the teachers.

The law requires that a County Board of Education may decide whether or not a teachers' institute will be held, and that the decision must be made prior to the first day.

of February. Last December a resolution stating that an institute would be held was adopted by the Board. Nothing further was done until on July 10th when the majority members of the Board discovered that "the old teachers' institute idea has no place in the present school system" and voted to rescind a supposed action of the Board taken in February, 1915. It was later discovered that no action had been taken in February and that the action to rescind was illegal.

This action aroused quite a great deal of interest among Fayette teachers who favor the teachers' institutes, and the matter was laid before the State School Superintendent who declared that there was nothing to prevent the organization of teachers from proceeding with the institute, and they at once proceeded to do so.

The instructors who will address the teachers are Frank B. Pearson, of the State Department, and Prof. Geoffrey F. Morgan, of Ohio University. Dean Williams will visit the institute Thursday and Friday and Governor Willis has signified his intention of addressing the teachers Thursday afternoon.

NEWS OF THE DIAMOND

Athletics vs. Presbys. A baseball treat of this week is a game scheduled for Wednesday afternoon between the Athletics and the Presbyterians, the latter winners of the Sunday school league pennant. The game will be played at Athletic park and will begin promptly at 2:30 o'clock.

The contest will undoubtedly be quite worth while. The Presbyterians have made not only an unusual, but really an extraordinary showing this year. They have not lost a single game in their league race, but what is more to their glory is the fact that in a great majority of their contests their victories have been shutouts.

Manager Hamer McDole of the Presbyterians insures that the game will not be "horse play."

The lineups of the two teams, as announced Tuesday are as follows: Athletics—Woods, c; Ross, p; Backenstoe, 1b; Runnels, 2b; Cotterill, ss; McAllister, 3b; Noon, lf; Underwood, cf; Mobley, rf.

Presbyterians—R. Judy, 2b; E. July, c; Groover, 3b; Sheets, ss; Whited, cf; Swartz, rf; Highmiller, lf; McGinnis, 1b; Gregg, Lanum, p.

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

Big luscious plums, Ohio peaches, Early Harvest apples, home grown tomatoes, the advance guard of the Tip Top canteloupes from Indiana and the sadly belated sweet potato are among the debutantes of the fruit and vegetable market "coming out" during the past few days.

The sweet potatoes are imported but excellent and are retailing at 8 cents per pound, 2 pounds for 15 cents. Plums are fat and plentiful. Abundance and Goose plums are the first to appear and are going at 5 and 10 cents per quart.

The first of the Indiana Tip Top canteloupes blossomed out in the grocery shelves and the sidewalk stands Tuesday. They are beauties and going easy at 15, 20 and 25 cents. Early harvest apples, all of good grade, are pouring onto the market. These and Transparents are selling at 6 pounds for 25 cents. Home grown tomatoes are coming in and are of first class. They are selling at 5 cents per pound.

Oranges, the last of the Valentias, are getting scarce. They will advance in price until the "between seasons" scarcity is over and the new stock comes in. They are now going at 25 to 40 cents per dozen. Bananas are extra good just now, having had excellent growing weather, and sell at 15 and 20 cents per dozen.

California lemons retail at 25 cents and are of first quality. There are a few Messinas left on the market, selling at 13c, but these will not last long.

Georgia watermelons are selling at 30 and 35 cents. Georgia and Texas peaches retail at 10 cents per pound, 3 pounds for 25 cents. There are some Ohio peaches now on the market, mostly Klings, and selling at from 5 cents to 8 cents per pound.

Kentucky Wonder beans are abundant. They are now retailing at 7 cents a pound but are expected to take a drop within a very few days. Sweet corn is coming in fast and going out at 15 cents per dozen.

Blackberries are still hanging on but they're scarce and are not expected to last another week. The demand is largely in excess of the supply.

mittee of the city council began its investigation, and the State Public Utilities Commission is considering the starting of an inquiry. Governor Dunne has been urged to call a special session of the legislature, and the sanitary board will see to the appointment of an investigation board.

Bids for the raising of the Eastland will be received today, and until this work is completed it is probable that the number of lives lost in the disaster cannot be definitely computed. Late estimates place the total dead at between 1,000 and 1,200.

State's Attorney Hoyne declared that Captain Pederson of the Eastland told him that federal sanction for increasing the boat's carrying capacity was "arranged."

AUTO DEMOLISHES TRAFFIC INDICATOR

An automobile, driven by Dr. L. L. Brock, in the rush of traffic at the Court and Main street intersection Monday afternoon, ran into the "Keep to the Right" traffic indicator in the center of the street, instantly reducing it to junk. The machine was undamaged.

'TATERS GROW ON TOP OF VINES

Potatoes growing on vines above the ground. Another chance for Luther Burbank! What would you say if one of your friends told you that he was raising Irish potatoes on vines above ground in plain view?

Well, this is exactly what Mr. Elmer McGraw, of Bucks township, has done, and he has the goods to prove it, too, in the form of the vine with the potatoes sticking on it yet. This vine, at present, is on exhibition at the county sheriff's office.

Mr. McGraw is a plain, ordinary potato grower of Bucks township, and is no relation of Luther Burbank's. Nevertheless, he has accomplished something that Burbank never did. The vine on which the potatoes grew is an ordinary Early Ohio potato vine, about a foot or a foot and a half in height. On this vine, at the points of juncture of the leaves with the main stalk, thirty-one little potatoes have developed, ranging in size from that of an egg to that of a hickory nut, and of various shapes, but all resembling potatoes, and really being potatoes. On the same vine which bore the 31 above ground potatoes, there were also, beneath the sod, three large Early Ohio potatoes of the finest kind.—Scioto Gazette.

MORE WAR IN ISLAND

By Associated Press. Port Au Prince, Haiti, July 27.—The revolutionary movement against President Guillaume showed itself in Port Au Prince again today. After several hours of fighting at the presidential palace, where Guillaume made a courageous defense against the revolutionists, the president took refuge in the French legation with his family.

The palace was on fire. Revolutionary government troops attacked the palace, firing upon it for two hours. A few royal troops and his personal staff supported the president.

There has been a reign of terror in Port Au Prince for ten days.

Before stonewall fences and cobblestone roads vanish under the vanishing march of progress steps should be taken to preserve a few specimens in their pristine beauty and simplicity.

Was it modesty or conceit? Huerta said that the shoes he tried hard to fit in belonged to the greatest man Mexico ever had—Porfirio Diaz.
